Education

- Ph.D., Anthropology (2005), University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
Dissertation: Gathering in the Late Paleoindian and Early Archaic Periods in the Middle Tennessee River Valley, Northwest Alabama
- B.A., majors: Environmental Studies and Archaeology (1998), Washington University, St. Louis, summa cum laude

Areas of Specialization and Interest

Archaeology; paleoethnobotany; prehistoric foodways among hunting-gathering and agricultural peoples, both prehistoric and historic, of the eastern United States; gender and identity among hunting-gathering peoples; use and meaning of landscape among hunting-gathering peoples.

Research and Work Experience

- 2006-present Research Assistant Professor, Archaeological Research Laboratory, University of Tennessee, Knoxville
- 2008-present Instructor for Readings and Research in Anthropology (ANTH 400, 501), University of Tennessee, Knoxville
- 2006 Instructor for Paleoethnobotany (ANTH 492, 550), University of Tennessee, Knoxville, fall semester
- 2005 Senior Archaeologist, Archaeological Research Laboratory, University of Tennessee, Knoxville
- 1998-2005 Laboratory Assistant for paleoethnobotanical analysis, Ethnobotany Laboratory, Research Laboratories of Archaeology, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
- 2003 Instructor for Food and Culture (ANTH 51), University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, summer session
- 2002 Supervisor and Ethnobotany Assistant for Dust Cave Field School, University of Alabama, summer session
- 2001 Cultural Resource Senior Assistant at the Office of Archaeological Services, University of Alabama Museums, summer
- 2001 Teaching Assistant, Food and Culture (ANTH 51), University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, spring semester
- 1999-2000 Supervisor and Ethnobotany Assistant, Dust Cave Field School, University of Alabama, summer sessions
- 1999-2000 Volunteer at University of North Carolina Field School excavations at the Grady Bobo Site in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, summer sessions
- 1998 Ethnobotany Assistant, Dust Cave Field School, University of Alabama, summer session
- 1998 Teaching Assistant for Genetics (BIOL 301), Washington University, spring semester
- 1997 Participant in Dust Cave Field School, University of Alabama, summer session

Grants and Awards

- 2005 Instructional Equipment Funding for two stereoscopic microscopes, College of Arts and Sciences, University of Tennessee, Knoxville
- 2004 On-Campus Dissertation Writing Fellowship, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, Graduate School
- 2003 National Science Foundation Dissertation Improvement Grant
- 2003 Barbara Lawrence Award for best student paper, 26th Annual Conference of the Society of Ethnobiology, Seattle, Washington

- 2002 Timothy Mooney Dissertation Fellowship, Research Laboratories of Archaeology, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
- 1999 National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship
- 1998 J.E. Pogue Fellowship, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, Graduate School
- 1998 Outstanding Overall Academic Achievement in Environmental Studies, Department of Earth and Planetary Sciences, Washington University
- 1998 Sigma Xi, Washington University
- 1998 Phi Beta Kappa, Washington University
- 1997 National Science Foundation Research Experiences for Undergraduates Fellowship at Dust Cave Field School, University of Alabama
- 1997 C.R. Jenkins Distinguished Achievement Award, Lambda Alpha Anthropology Honorary Society
- 1997 Golden Key National Honor Society, Washington University
- 1996 Lambda Alpha Anthropology Honorary Society, Washington University
- 1994-1998 Dean's List, Washington University
- 1994 National Merit Scholar
